MIXED TRIO FOR DRUMS, CELLO, AND PIANO

PETER THOEGERSEN

COMPOSED 2025

RULES FOR THIS PIECE:

Mixed Trio for drums, cello, and piano is basically a transcribed improvisation, to be read. There are no dynamics, articulations, or phrase marks, as that is entirely up to the performer. Therefore these parameters are indeterminate and left to the performer. The pitch and rhythmic materials, however, MUST be followed to the letter of the law. If the performer wishes to use microtones, then PLEASE DO SO! If the performer is a synth player, they may even wish to use polymicrotonality. In fact, the cello and piano don't have to be in the same tuning. YOU HAVE TOTAL FREEDOM. Except for the pitch and rhythm. So if you see an Eb, play the Eb, but with any microtonal inflection you want: Just, equal, unequal, non-octave, et al…..
